WHO AM I

Kojenwa began working as an actor in the film and television industry while living in Toronto after completing a B.A in History and French Literature from the University of Toronto. Her foray into the world of drama coupled with her background in visual arts from the Art Gallery of Ontario precipitated a demand for her involvement in helping to direct large scale productions such as Toronto Fashion Week as well as to launch PR events designated for the Toronto International Film Festival and IDA Films for which she is part owner. Additionally having been trained in broadcast media and contemporary dance,

Kojenwa quickly found a network of corporate, fashion, lifestyle and arts & entertainment connections in Boston, Paris, New York and Toronto, where she currently spends the majority of her time. Her subsequent completion of a one year international MBA at Hult in Boston created a fortuitous opening for travel to international markets such as Shanghai as well as an opportunity to provide consulting services to both private and Fortune 500 companies through strategic marketing initiatives specializing in brand development, marketing and public relations
